

Sysec News

Sysec is expanding. We are increasing our expertise to service and support our growing base of clients. Here, in their own words, are short introductions to our new faces:

Colin Carter

"I have joined Sysec after four years with an SSO vendor. I am looking forward to working with Sysec's customers and helping them to implement effective identity and access management solutions particularly as more customers consider moving some of their IT to the cloud.

Personally, I still find time for the odd game of golf, spending time with my family of five children and keep my skills as a sound engineer in shape by supporting local hospital radio and local events."

Jon Edmonds

"I have recently joined Sysec in business development to maintain and build relationships with existing clients. Sysec has excellent technical capabilities in offering professional services to our customers. I bring eight years of experience at McAfee, managing client relationships and their requirements for information security to Sysec. I am also a qualified FA coach and put these skills to good use coaching the Woodley Saints U11 team (... new team sponsors are very welcome!) and I support, along with my three sons, Reading FC."

Alexa Fox

"I have joined Sysec as an Accounts Assistant from MWSecurity. I have over six years of experience in the accountancy industry and particularly enjoy working for fast moving and expanding companies such as Sysec. Outside of work I enjoy keeping fit, pub quizzes and not taking life too seriously."

Chris Thompson

"I have recently joined Sysec as a consultant. Before Sysec, I spent 5 years at McAfee. I have also spent 10 years at IBM in the Global Services division, including 3 years at IBM were spent in the Security group delivering anti-virus solutions to corporations who had outsourced to IBM."
